Can a space exist in more than one category?

Can a space belong to two or more categories at the same time?

The short answer is no.

The way that RefinedTheme is built, a space can only exist in one site-category at the same time.

A kind of workaround

While a space can only exist in one space at a time, you can however setup links to spaces in the category menu if you want your users to have access to a space while on another site or in another category. The downside to it is that the context of which the space is placed, is the one that will be shown. Let me show you:

1. The space exists in one category.

2. Go to the Site Builder, and in the category where you want the space to be too, you add a link.
Add the link to the space in the link setup.

You will now have one link, and one actual space.

In the site, the link will be in one category...
And the actual space is in another category. Notice that the actual space has the star for favourite.

One thing to notice is that whenever a user is on a space, the category of where the user resides will be highlighted. This will be true if you have different themes on different categories, or sites if the link is in a different site, then the theme of the category where the actual space is will show up.
